Federal Financial Aid Available from The Rolf Institute® of Structural Integration

Boulder, CO – November 16, 2010 – The Rolf Institute of Structural Integration is now eligible to participate in Federal Student Financial Aid Programs under Title IV for its Rolfer™ certification training. Title IV Federal Student Aid ensures that all individuals who qualify can benefit from federally funded financial assistance for education beyond high school. It includes a variety of loans and grants, such as Pell grants and Direct Student Loans.

Since its inception in 1971, The Rolf Institute® of Structural Integration has trained and certified over 1700 Rolfers worldwide. The Rolf Institute is the only school that teaches Rolfig® Structural Integration and graduates Rolfers™. Its rigorous training program is supported by an esteemed international faculty, some of who trained with Dr. Ida P. Rolf, the school founder and developer of Rolfig Structural Integration.

Rolfig® Structural Integration is a form of hands-on manipulation and education that systematically reorganizes the connective tissues, called fascia, to release, realign and balance the whole body. It may bring dramatic results, such as recovery from injury; reduction in chronic pain, including headache and back pain; improved ability to move with ease; reduction in physical and mental stress and tension; and increased balance and flexibility. Unique to the process is the incorporation of Rolf Movement® Integration which brings the structural work into daily activity and everyday movements allowing for greater ease and freedom throughout the body.
